

Curran Continues to Serve Customers and Protect Its Workers and Staff.

To Our Valued Customers:

Despite spread of COVID-19, coronavirus, Curran International remains committed to meeting customer needs and to maintaining the safe work practices outlined by health officials and government agencies.

Curran International continues ongoing shop and field operations in support of the 16 critical infrastructure sectors, as defined in CISA Directive of the Department of Homeland Security.

Curran International has implemented strict new operating protocols; adjusted work schedules, instituted daily employee health screenings, and has made available additional personal protective equipment to help ensure the health and welfare of our shop and field teams.

Curran International office and administrative functions have been shifted to remote work locations.

You can reach your Curran International contact via email, or by calling 281.339.9993 during normal business hours.

We wish everyone across our global network the best.
